Dr. Levy has made a personal and scientific examination into the milk supply of Hichmond, and has tasued his results in a pamphlet form. He stated yesterday that the milk supply is clean and has proper food value, but it is not as free from bacteria as the public health demands. He will continue his work, which has been in progress ever since he entered upon office, and in his budget for sanitary work in the city

In purchase of the South Carolling dispensary law, while still in the warehouse in which it had been placed by the railroad company.

Howman was compelled to return the purchase price to the consigness and then sought to recover from the railroad company on the ground that the company had insured the safe delivery of the goods. The Geergla Supreme Court held that the property had been selzed under legal authority, and the company could not be held liable. The opinion of the Federal Supreme Court was delivered by Justice White, and reversed the findings of the lower court.

"Now, we have nothing to say about the prices that the milk combination may make on its gathered-from-everywhere product. They are doing just what all other trusts are doing, and we may expect these advances and 'hold-ups' just as long as the poor consumer has any surplus to be extracted.

"But we do object to a reinforcement of this extortionate demand by the introduction of medical and sanitary opinions likely to create false impressions and feur among the people, and thus cause them to submit quietly to an imposition under the idea that it is better for the health of their little ones.

for the health of their little ones.

"In a population of 87,246 in the city of Richmond, there were nine deaths of children under two years of age for the month of October from diarrhea. During the same month there were ten deaths from fractures and other accidents. So that during the month of October, at least, a child stood about equal chance of dying from bacteria-laden milk or being knocked in the head by accident!

"Considering the tremendous increase in the human family on bacteria-laden milk, we are led to inquire if, after all,

ON MILK SWARMING WITH BACTERIA!

Now, about the matter of raising the standard of solids in milk. There are two sides to this question. A milk may be strictly pure and healthy, and far below the lowest standard. Standard of solids and fats is purely a matter of food value, and the consumer may regulate that to suit himself, from skimmed milk to cream, and all will be pure and healthy. Every mother knows that she CANNOT REEP HER BABY HEALTHY on milk of standard solids and fats. She must reduce the solids and fats. She must reduce the solids and bring the milk to a low grade before her baby can discest it. Therefore, increasing the solids and fats would be of no avail in keeping the child healthy at the critical period of its early life. Of course, there is more nutrition in milk of a higher standard, but milk from an average herd of healthy cows, perfectly fresh and clean, is all that is required in the human economy, and a few common-sense general laws on the subject that any police justice could administer would save expense to the producer and selier. There is such a thing as carrying theory too for, and before long the people of Richmond will pay dearly for allowing themselves to forget point truths, that have been established long ago by experience and observation."

Some of them walked themselves out of their jobs for a short time, and are now laid up at home with enlarged feet. One of the new cops was so energetic that he has since taken to his bed to reduce his ardor. All of them have that tired feeling, at least one has made an arrest, and his heart throbbed with joy and just pride as he landed his first.

The old cops bave been there before, and they are looking on in amused and sympathetic slience. All beholders sympathize. It's a tough job.
